“Each student offers an amazing story of taking on a tremendous work load of classes while holding down jobs and maintaining excellent grade point averages,” said Mark Hanna, a spokesman for the Insurance Council of Texas. “Best of all, these students have a keen interest in insurance and each one would be an asset for any insurance company.”

The ICT Education Foundation provides scholarships and academic funding to UTSA and the insurance and risk management programs at nine other Texas universities. To date, the Foundation has provided scholarships to 162 students over the past eight years.

Baylor, the University of Texas at Austin, the University of North Texas, the University of Texas at San Antonio, the University of Texas Pan American, Huston-Tillotson University, Texas Southern University, SMU and the University of Houston-Downtown receive ICT funding. St. Mary's University in San Antonio will join the list of universities beginning in the fall.

The Insurance Council of Texas is the largest state insurance trade association in the country consisting of approximately 500 property and casualty insurers writing business in Texas. For more information turn to ICT's Web site at www.insurancecouncil.org.
